AD COMMITTEE HERE

Clubs Among University and College Students Desired.

Headquarters in Columbia for a committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to foster the organization of advertising clubs among university and college students is forecast by Joe B. Hosmer, president of John W. Jewell Chapter, Alpha Delta Sigma.

The suggestion for this committee was made last June at the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs in Indianapolis by the delegates representing Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity, and Gamma Alpha Chi, the advertising society. According to Mr. Hosmer, he expects to receive announcement of the appointment of a committee by the Associated Advertising Clubs representing the two honor societies and the non-fraternity advertising clubs, which will carry out an active campaign for the organization among students in universities giving instruction in advertising.

"It was the opinion of some of the big men in the Associated Advertising clubs with whom I discussed the idea," says Mr. Hosmer, "that the extension of advertising club work into all the universities teaching advertising would help the associated clubs in their work of establishing the 'truth in advertising' standard and their work in increasing the ethical standards of the advertising business."

At present there are eight student advertising clubs. There are chapters of Alpha Delta Sigma here, at the University of Illinois, the University of Kentucky and at Georgetown (Ky.) College. Gamma Alpha Chi, the advertising society which was organized here last year, also has a chapter at the University of Texas. In addition there are student advertising clubs at the University of Wisconsin and New York City University.

from cotton growers' reports, by E. A. Logan, agricultural statistician for Missouri, and Jewell Mayes secretary of the State Board of Agriculture.

The crop was favorable during the past month, but is still ten to fifteen days late, and an abundant amount of moisture recently will induce heavy growth. Abandoned acreage has been very light and most of the crop has been well cultivated. The Missouri production should be 77,268 bales of 500 pounds, and the United States forecast is for 12,783,000 bales.

Attributes Life Insurance to His Success.

The summer before entering his University of Vermont Darwin P. Kingley worked on a farm and saved $500, a farmer for whom he worked offered to lend him the rest of the necessary money to go to college provided he gave security in case he died. The farmer believed if Kingley lived he would pay his money. Kingley took out a $500 policy, which he handed to his friend and benefactor. To this incident he attributes the fact that he is president of the New York Life Insurance Company today. He wanted to serve an institution that rendered such service.

W. G. Stephenson will be glad to tell you—young man or young woman—more about this service.—Adv.

AMERICA is fast becoming a pipe smoking country. Every year more and more men are realizing the satisfaction, and the economy of the pipe. And by natural selection, more and more men are smoking WDC Pipes. This is not chance. It is because WDC Pipes offer the utmost in pipe value. Honest French briar, seasoned by our own special process make WDC Pipes break in sweet and mellow. Coupled with that is a self-governed body of pipe makers whose sole object is to fashion pipes which are without peers in all the world. And it has been accomplished. Ask any good dealer.
